JUDITH PARKER HARRIS HONORED BY TOASTMASTERS

At the Spring Conference of the District One of International Toastmasters, Judith Parker Harris was awarded with the Communication and Leadership Award. Cited as a "positive change agent, charities champion and inspiring teacher," the ceremony took place on May 3, 2003 in El Segundo, California.

In a short acceptance speech, Judith shared the story of her amazing recovery from multiple sclerosis and gave credit to community service as part of what helped her to heal from partial sight loss and numbness from the waist down. "I had no life outside of my career," she said. "I had to find balance."

She first reached out to Women In Film, which she joined in 1993 and immediately pitched in to help create its nationally recognized and awarded Public Service Announcement Program. "We've produced over 40 PSA campaigns for charities that serve women and children and cannot afford to market themselves, and we've been honored by the White House for our success." Judith chaired the Program for 7 years and is now Vice Chair of the Women in Film Foundation. She has also been on the Boards of Para Los Niños, Multiple Sclerosis Association of America and is currently marketing chair and board member of the National Speakers Association, L.A. chapter, "If more people would get out of themselves and into their connection with the world," Judith posits, "who knows what we might be able to heal?"

Harris challenges everyone to move from BLOCKED TO BLOCK-BUSTER, the name of her latest book, speaking series and coaching program. She uses the magic of the movies to help people target and change whatever is holding them back in life.
